Robert J. O'Neill

One of the most highly-decorated combat veterans of our time and author of the memoir,
The Operator: Firing the Shots That Killed Osama bin Laden and My Years as a SEAL Team Warrior

Rob O'Neill is a former SEAL Team Six leader with the Naval Special Warfare Development Group. He deployed more than a dozen times and held combat leadership roles in more than 400 combat missions in four different theaters of war. A highly-trained Navy SEAL, he led the military's most elite and was involved in our nation's most important campaigns. With most of his career shrouded in a classified cloak, O'Neill was the man on the ground we have never heard of but know exists. He was one of the quiet professionals performing the most difficult tasks under the most difficult circumstances, serving his remarkable career in the shadows and keeping America safe in the process. In addition to addressing the bin Laden raid in Pakistan, O'Neill's best-selling memoir covers his roles in the rescue of former Navy SEAL Marcus Luttrell (recounted in the best-seller Lone Survivor), as well as the liberation of Captain Richard Phillips and the ship Maersk Alabama after Somali pirates seized the vessel in the Indian Ocean. O'Neill is currently a contributor to Fox News.

In the world of high-pressure Navy SEAL missions, instant, critical decision-making is a necessity for success. O'Neill brings this unique expertise to his audience and translates his elite SEAL team training into high-impact, actionable insights on leadership, decision-making, operating in uncertain environments, and how to become the "best of the best." His mantra is "never quit," and he believes this is the single most important factor in determining success.
